Description:

Review "A modern classic. . . . Lively, stylistically taut . . . Sjowall and Wahloo changed the genre."-- Henning Mankell, from the introduction

"A wonderfully tough and pleasantly chilling tale . . . told without a wasted word."--Harper's

"Superb suspense. . . . Let no mystery authority worth the appellation miss Roseanna. . . . I have never read a finer police story." -- Dorothy B. Hughes, Los Angeles Times

"Sjowall and Wahloo are the best writers of police procedural in the world." --Birmingham Post

"Listening to Tom Weiner's narration of Roseanna, one can easily believe one is hearing a gaggle of Swedish policemen. . . . The story, setting, and characters have a noir quality, and the clipped rhythms of Weiner's reading are just right. In his Everyman baritone, we hear the frustrations of a case for which no solutions can be found for months. When the action heats up, listeners feel the tension rise as the police work round the clock to bring the case to a close. As the story comes to an end, the ragged edge in Weiner's voice helps listeners feel the detectives' mix of sadness and triumph." --AudioFile
